Conditions for which the treatment is particularly beneficial (Univ. Prof. Dr. Ritter, 2008)

1. Diseases affecting the locomotor apparatus
   - Ankylosing Spondylitis and other spondylarthroses
   - Rheumatoid Arthritis (chronic Polyarthritis)
   - Arthroses (including polyarthrosis of the fingers)
   - Chronic gout
   - Psoriatic Arthritis
   - Spinovertebral syndrome
   - Fibromyalgia
   - Osteoporosis pains
   - Neuropathies, Polyneuropathia
   - Sports injuries
   - Sarcoidosis

2. Respiratory Illnesses
   - Chronic Bronchitis
   - Bronchial Asthma
   - Chronic Sinusitis
   - Chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD)
   - Hay fever

3. Skin Conditions
   - Psoriasis (vulgaris)
   - Neurodermatitis
   - Wounds which fail to heal
   - Scleroderma
   The treatment is also helpful in combating menopausal symptoms, and as a prophylaxis (preventative medicine), as well as in stabilizing the immune system.

The treatment is not recommended for:
   - Pregnant women, those with untreated overactive thyroids, severe claustrophobia, and cancer patients in their first year post treatment.
   - We also recommend that you seek medical advice if you suffer from serious heart, circulatory or renal illnesses.
After being taken in through the lungs and the skin, the noble gas radon is rapidly dispersed throughout the body, and its decomposition products are deposited on the skin. Alpha radiation is released. This stimulates the body’s cell repair mechanism and reduces the amount of free radicals, also activating the healing and antiphlogistic cell messenger TGF-beta (a counterpart of the cytokine TNF-alpha) (Schwarzmeier et al., 2005).

As a result, there is a reduction in the migration of inflammatory cells through the vessel walls (Harder, 2005). These processes help prevent chronic inflammations and allergies, thus establishing an immunological balance.

In addition, they inhibit the pain messenger “substance P”. At the same time, there is an increased secretion of beta endorphins – also known as “happy hormones”. This, in turn, has a positive influence on serotonin metabolism.

Continued hyperthermia as a result of the climate in the Heilstollen causes a slight healing fever. This hyperthermia enhances the effect of the radon treatment, bringing about a long-lasting alleviation of pain symptoms.

Moreover, the alpine altitude of Gastein further enhances the positive effects of the spa treatment. As to radon itself, only half of it remains in the body after 20–30 minutes, and it is completely eliminated from the body after 3 hours.

On average, the radiation dose to which patients are exposed during a three-week spa treatment is below the annual exposure to radiation from natural sources.
THE GASTEINER HEILSTOLLEN

Radon, heat, and high humidity. These three features are found naturally within the Radhaus Mountain where the Heilstollen (literally meaning “healing cave gallery”) is located. In combination, they create a natural and unique healing atmosphere. They provide long lasting benefits to those suffering from locomotor disorders, as well as skin and respiratory conditions. In addition, the treatment stabilizes the immune system. Long-lasting alleviation of pain and a reduced need for medication are the scientifically proven effects of the Heilstollen.

Univ. Doz. Dr. Bertram Hölzl
Medical Director Gasteiner Heilstollen

The Gasteiner Heilstollen treatment is a combination of mild hyperthermia treatment and radon treatment. It has been shown that patients with diseases of the locomotor apparatus such as ankylosing spondylitis, rheumatoid arthritis, or fibromyalgia experience remarkable pain alleviation effects. These effects last for several months. It was even scientifically proven that there is a reduced need for medication for up to one year. This effective, natural remedy also brings about an impressive improvement in the case of respiratory or skin illnesses.

For a natural pain relief

The three healing factors at alpine elevations

- Warmth (37 – 41.5 °C)
- Humidity (70 – 100%)
- Natural radon levels (44 kBq/m³ in the Heilstollen air)

Therapy, Curation & Rehabilitation
Treatment in the Heilstollen involves a therapeutic combination of mild overheating (hyperthermia) and radon therapy at alpine elevations. As a result, the Heilstollen represents the most intensive, most effective form of therapy in Gastein Valley. It takes place at five therapy stations with increasing temperature (37 to 41.5 °C) and humidity (70 to 100%). The natural radon levels in the air average 44 kBq/m³. Sustained pain relief, increase in the body’s own anti-inflammatory abilities, and significant reduction in need for medication are the scientifically proven benefits of Heilstollen therapy. The success rate verges on 90 percent, which makes the Gastein Heilstollen the No.1 choice when it comes to natural forms of therapy.

Prevention & Stabilization
Causing radon to be absorbed through respiratory passages and the surface of the skin, the unique therapeutic climate of the Gastein Heilstollen promotes the body’s own cellular metabolism. As a result, the cells’ intrinsic ability to repair DNA is stimulated naturally. The body’s own mechanisms to strengthen and stabilize the immune system are activated. Consequently, Heilstollen therapy represents an outstanding approach to health maintenance and immune prophylaxis.

Science & Research
The effects of the naturally-occurring element radon and the benefits of Heilstollen therapy have been the subject of scientific research since 1946. In close cooperation with the Gastein Research Institute of Paracelsus Medical University Salzburg, Gastein Heilstollen is intensifying its efforts through some highly promising studies. In these, tried-and-true, as well as new forms of radon therapy are being scientifically investigated for their reliability, validity and health benefits. «A positive biological reaction after Heilstollen therapy is unequivocally measurable», states Prof. Markus Ritter, Chairman of the Gastein Research Institute.

For a natural pain relief

« Less pain, fewer medications, and finally leading a normal daily life again. I owe this to Gastein Heilstollen Therapy, which I undergo once a year. »

Jens Clausnitzer, age 44, Pockau/Germany
The Heilstollen treatment is provided upon medical prescription by the Heilstollen physicians, or by spa physicians of the Gastein valley.

The sessions in the Heilstollen are at the heart of the Heilstollen treatment.

Depending on the symptomatology of the ailment, physicians recommend a treatment lasting between 2 and 4 weeks. Three to four sessions in the Heilstollen are possible each week. Patients must keep in mind that after one to two sessions in the Heilstollen, they must pause for one day before re-entering the Heilstollen. The time required for the first session to the Heilstollen, including the initial medical examination and rest, is approximately 4 hours, while the subsequent sessions in the Heilstollen will take approx. 3 hours.

Opening Times: 9 January until 10 November, daily except Sunday, Easter and Whit Monday, 1st May, 26th October, 1st November
